Traffic accident kills two, closes Jefferson Blvd.

■ Mother, son die in head-on collision near Jefferson Blvd. bridge; accident's cause still unknown

By Steve Marschke

A California Highway Patrol science team is aiding a West Sacramento police investigation into the cause of a Saturday afternoon traffic accident on Jefferson Blvd. which left two people dead.

The accident occurred at about 1:35 p.m. just south of the Stone Lock Bridge, and near where Jefferson intersects South River Road. Delays to clear the wreckage and collect physical evidence kept the road closed until about 8 p.m., forcing many residents to detour south to the Freeport Bridge in order to get between the northern and southern halves of the city, since the bridge serves as the only direct connection.

Nina Burlington, a 27-year old Summerfield Dr. resident, died on the scene as the result of the head-on crash. Burlington was driving a 1989 Ford Tempo. Her two-year old son, Marcus, was airlifted to the UC Davis Medical Center, where he died shortly afterwards.

Three other family members, also in the Ford Tempo, were injured. The boy's father, Cedric Shannon, 33, was hospitalized by the crash. The couple's seven-year old daughter and a 17-year old family member (whose exact relation was unavailable), both of whose names have not been released, were also hospitalized.

The 17-year old, who was pregnant, gave birth to a healthy baby boy in an emergency Caesarean section operation at the medical center following the accident.

The other car was a 1986 Ford Mustang carrying driver Kimber Harris, a 30-year old West Sacramento resident who lives on A St., and her three-year old daughter who was in a child restraint seat at the time. Both were hospitalized in serious condition.

Further details on the victims' conditions were unavailable, but investigator Dan Ruden of the West Sacramento Police Department said Shannon's condition appeared to be the most serious of the group.

"We believe the roadway was wet and it may have been raining before the accident," said Ruden. "We found an alcoholic container in one of the vehicles. The collision appeared to be head-on in the northbound lane, and both vehicles came to rest on the east side of the road."

Officer Ruden stressed that the cause of the accident was still not known, and asked that witnesses call him at 372-2461. He said he believed he knew which vehicle was heading in which direction before the crash, but declined to speculate further before the investigation is finished.

The CHP's Multi-Disipline Accident Investigation Team (MAIT) arrived shortly after the incident to help gather evidence and aid in the West Sacramento Police Department's investigation.

"They provide assistance and analysis," said Ruden. "They'll be coming up with traffic dynamics."

An unconfirmed police report indicated that the home belonging to the parents of Nina Burlington, who died with her son in the crash, was burglarized while the parents were at the hospital after the accident.

Protesters show up at meeting

Police chief criticized for handling of discipline

By David Weller

A public meeting sponsored by the West Sacramento Democratic club was disrupted Monday night by protesters over the city's handling of two officers being charged with assaulting a man while trying to place him under arrest.

About twenty local members of the Democratic club gathered at Johnny's Sidewalk Pizza on Marcel Avenue to hear speeches by West Sacramento Police Chief Larry Gore and Davis Mayor David Rosenberg. The public had been invited to attend.

After the meeting had begun, forty people showed up, many of them wearing light blue ribbons, according to club president Bob Horowitz. Also in attendance was a channel 31 news crew.

Five minutes into Gore's discussion of new community policing policies, the protesters began asking him questions about the suspension of officers Donald Donaho 37 and Jeffrey Neuman 32, who have been accused by the district attorney of assaulting Jesse Beltran after he fled the scene of a routine traffic stop in February.

From there the range of questions expanded to include cuts in the number of officers on the street and low department morale.

After several minutes of angry confrontations by the protesters, Democratic Club President Bob Horowitz cut them off in order to let Rosenberg, the second scheduled speaker, have a chance to address the club.

Chief Gore went into an adjoining room, where he continued to respond to questions from the protesters.

Several members of the Democratic club expressed anger that the other group took over their meeting. "We just wanted to meet the man (Gore). He's been here for about a year now and we invited him because we wanted to learn more about him. They could have scheduled their own meeting," said Horowitz.

According to Carla Beddingcourt, a county emergency services dispatcher who attended the meeting, the protesters showed up because they had heard that Gore would be answering questions at a public forum.

"This was not organized, people were just fed up not being able to contact him (Chief Gore). A lot of community members have been trying to voice their support for the officers (Donoho and Neuman), but the department hasn't responded," said Beddingcourt.

The people who came to confront Gore would did not realize that they were interrupting what is usually a small, more polite meeting, according to Beddingfield.

"People are frustrated about a lot of things in the department. Morale is at an all time low," she said.

Gore is away from town for a week, and was not able to respond to the News Ledgers's inquiries.

Donoho and Neuman, who have been West Sacramento police officers since 1987 are currently on administrative leave.

They are expected to be arraigned April 18 on charges of assault with a deadly weapon and assault under the color of authority in Yolo County Court.

An internal investigation by the West Sacramento police department found that they used excessive force in arresting Jesse Beltran.

Since his release, Beltran has been arrested on charges of car theft, robbery, and parole violation in Sacramento County. He is also a suspect in a West Sacramento armed robbery case.

'Cheaper!' on hold, waits for new study

By Steve Marschke

A new traffic study to help prove that a Southport "Cheaper!" store would actually reduce traffic across the Jefferson Blvd. bridge remains up in the air. The West Sacramento City Council had earlier rejected the store's proposal based on traffic safety issues, but left the door open to reconsider their decision if the store's owner could prove their project would not create more congestion on the crowded bridge.

"We've been working with them to further define the traffic study we would need," said Stephen Patek, the city's community development director. We could have to put out a request for proposals for a firm to perform a new analysis, and they haven't indicated whether they would pay for that."

The firm had appeared to be threatening a lawsuit over the issue in recent months, submitting demands for a large number of public records relating to their store and the city's decision-making process.

MacBlo contract O.K.'d

By David Weller

The city council unanimously approved Wednesday night a long awaited 21 year development agreement with MacMillan Bloedel, a Canadian firm trying to build a newspaper recycling plant near the Port of Sacramento.

The agreement, originally presented to the council in January, had been sent back to city staff with the order to strengthen the city's position in respect to reduction of steam plumes and the use of any future technology for recycling the huge amounts of waste sludge the plant will produce.

Now that the city has given the go ahead to the company for building the plant, the only legal hurdle left is permission from the State Water Quality Control Board.

Effluence from similar MacMillan Bloedel plants is currently being studied by Larry Walker and Associates, a Davis consulting firm.

Council discusses farming out sewage disposal

By David Weller

The city council will consider tonight whether it wants to try the become a part of the Sacramento Regional Sanitation District in order to solve current sewage treatment problems and to make the city ready to handle large amounts of effluence from the proposed MacMillan Bloedel treatment plant.

A recent report filed by sanitation district staff found that the district could begin treating West Sacramento sewage, including MacMillan Bloedel effluence, for an initial hookup fee of $33 million, in addition to the unknown cost of building a pipeline across the river to the district's Elk Grove facility.

A city staff report recommends that the council begin the application process while trying to negotiate a lower fee with the district.

The other alternative for treating sewage from the city and the paper plant would be to build another treatment plant in West Sacramento.

Currently, a new plant is estimated to be the less expensive alternative. "The choice will probably come down to which is the best value for the residents of West Sacramento," said Community Development Director Steve Patek.

Yolo High School:

Dead end on firebombing?

By Steve Marschke

Police may be at a standstill in their search for suspects who threw a pair of Molotov cocktails at Yolo High School March 27.

According to Sgt. Don Ploof, Detective Luna (who was not available for comment Tuesday) "interviewed several students, but there was nothing tangible in the information she received."

Physical evidence is still being analyzed by the state Department of Justice crime lab, which "does probably the best work in California, but takes awhile."

Physical evidence may or may not lead to suspects, he said.

Ploof asked anyone with information about the crime to call Det. Luna at 373-5870.

The attack resulted in a fire which damaged computer equipment at a school office. Disgruntled students were suspected, and a witness saw two "young" people fleeing the scene.

Completion of second barge canal bridge hoped for '96

By Steve Marschke

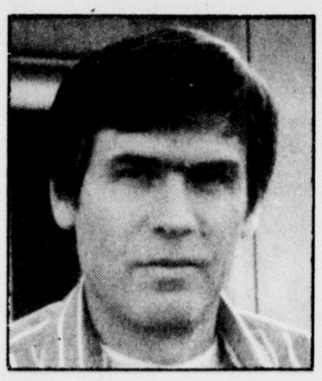

A "rough draft" engineering study for the proposed "Palamidessi Bridge," intended to span the barge canal between the northern and southern halves of West Sacramento and supplement the crowded Jefferson Blvd. bridge, has been finished.

"The '65 percent' design study was completed a month ago," said Stephen Patek, the city's community development director. "A buildability

Politics of 90s shouldn't forget goals of the 60s

My Back Pages

By Daryl Fisher

I have a friend I really respect (I'll call him Ricky) who likes to corner me from time to time and talk politics. He knows that his conservative views are presently in the ascendancy throughout the land, and I think he kinda enjoys watching me squirm around as I heroically attempt to defend such political dinosaurs as the liberal programs which came out of my beloved 1960's and Lyndon Johnson's War on Poverty.

A case in point is affirmative action, which had its roots in a 1965 executive order signed by Johnson (and later expanded by that flaming liberal, Richard Nixon) which prohibited job discrimination and required the federal government to provide equal opportunity for its employees.

"I want you to read this," said Ricky (who owns his own very successful business) as he handed me six or seven typed pages of something entitled "Notice To Bidders And Special Provisions."

"What is it?" I asked as I flipped over to page two and saw that he had highlighted Section 2-1.025, Minority Business Enterprise (MBE), Women Business Enterprise (WBE), and Disabled Veteran Business Enterprise (DVBE).

"It's just a few of the hoops I have to jump through before I can bid a job or hire people to work for me," he explained.

It's amazing how ugly looking government can make a beautiful idea, I thought to myself as I scanned the almost incomprehensible document.

"I think I'd rather argue with you about Rush Limbaugh again than try to defend affirmative action," I said.

"Actually," said Ricky, "I've been listening on my car radio to this other guy lately, but I guess the message is pretty much the same."

"Don't get me started on talk radio," I said.

"But I think some of those programs can be real educational," said Ricky.

"But guys like Limbaugh never sit down and really debate their beliefs," I said. "They just spend hour after hour ridiculing those they don't agree with and that makes meaningful, constructive dialogue and real problem solving almost impossible."

"Have you ever actually listened to Limbaugh?" Ricky asked me with suspicion.

"Only a few times," I admitted, explaining that I already have enough garbage floating around in my head as it is.

"Anyway," said Ricky, always more tactful than me, "you read some of that stuff I have to comply with when you get a chance -- and I think you'll start to see why things have to change."

Later that evening, after I had struggled through some of the ridiculous paperwork my friend deals with on a daily basis, I thought about some of the other valid points he had made and then recalled how Lyndon Johnson's affirmative action had actually been a very simple idea -- to give everyone a chance to compete fairly. The goal was to make it possible for women to break down the old-boy networks; for Mexican-Americans to get jobs in areas outside of agriculture and manual labor; for young blacks to dream about careers they had been systematically locked out of for centuries; and for all minorities to have a lawful mechanism which would help them avoid overt racism and discrimination in the work place.

Unfortunately, affirmative action has slowly turned into "a means for judging members of previously excluded groups by different, and generally lower, standards than others," and it has given way to inflammatory terms like 'quotas', 'set-asides', and 'reverse discrimination.' Yet it has still made it possible for diverse communities to have representative police, fire, and other city services, and given hope to countless people in other professions who once had none.

And that is the word I want to focus on in these last few paragraphs -- hope. When I look back on the 1960's and President Johnson's 'Great Society', it seemed like there was genuine hope everywhere. Americans were determined to lick poverty, end a bloody and senseless war, and make civil rights a reality for everyone. There was no 'bottom line' mentality yet, or at least it didn't feel like everything revolved around making money and out-consuming one's neighbor. Not everyone who had lucked out by birth or circumstance was jumping up and down on third base thinking they had actually hit a triple. And maybe best of all, there were no Rush Limbaughs to play almost exclusively to our fears and harangue us endlessly with the lie that any one way (be it liberal or conservative) of looking at our problems has all the right on its side.

Maybe I'm just at that age when the world is starting to pass me by -- at least that is how my kids have defined the problem -- but I hope as our somewhat less than courageous politicians continue to re-examine each and every program our nation has established to assist the less fortunate, they will do so with an ancient 60's anthem in mind -- that if we as a people can't find caring (even loving) ways to help the many who are impoverished (in spirit and hope, too), then we may not be able to save the few who are rich.

'What think ye of Christ?' (Matt. 22:42)

By Bishop Kimber Goddard
Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints
West Sacramento

BISHOP KIMBER GODDARD

This special season prompts us to consider the ageless question -- who is this Jesus Christ, who for centuries prior and subsequent to his meridian appearance on the earth, was and is the central figure of the human race?

I ran across the following, unauthenticated though interesting article from a friend recently that provokes thought on the question:

"In Rome, a few months prior to the World War, a roll of parchment was discovered in a religious library. The document would have astounded the entire world, had not the war broken out at that precise moment. While many years have passed and the truth of the document has not been brought to light, it appears to be a good testimony regarding the life of Jesus Christ, and is of great historical value.

"It is in the form of a letter from Publius Lentulus, predecessor to Pontius Pilot as governor of Judea, written to Caesar, Emperor of Rome. The letter speaks of Jesus and is written in Latin, and carries the date of the time period that Jesus spoke in public for the first time.

"The document states the following, by way of translation:

SPORTS

The Sports Insider

By Richard Novoa

The Sacramento Kings (35-39) are preparing for the final two weeks of the season and despite losing four out of five of their last games, the Kings can still make the playoffs.

Last Saturday's loss at home to the Clippers in overtime really hurt the Kings. The Kings have four games in the next five nights!

Tuesday night, the Kings will travel to L.A. to play the lowly Clippers (16-59), who have the worst record in the NBA.

They should win this game, but the real fun starts on Wednesday at the Arco Arena as the playoff-bound Lakers come to town with a record of 47-28, followed by a road trip on Friday to San Antonio (56-18) and Houston (44-31) on Saturday.

San Antonio not only has the best record in the NBA, but has been working on a 15-game winning streak! Walt Williams should return to the Kings lineup after sitting out two games with a sore back. The Denver Nuggets (36-39) and the Dallas Mavericks (33-41) are still in position to win the eighth and final Western Conference playoff berth.

Even though I just paid for my Kings playoff tickets and really would enjoy watching the Kings in the playoffs, I still think the Kings lack the bench strength and also need another outside shooter besides Richmond to be successful in the playoffs.

If the Kings, who have eight games remaining, can pull off this last-minute drive to the playoffs, they would face either San Antonio, Seattle or Phoenix in the best-of-five series.

The Kings are in tough, because the Nuggets have a little more scoring from their bench and have a good center in Mutombo, and Dallas has been playing great basketball, winning ten of their last 15 games.

I mentioned at the beginning of the season that the Kings were two players away from making the playoffs. Well, maybe one player would be more accurate.

If they fail to make the playoffs, they would have another chance at selecting that one player in the NBA draft lottery.

Let's talk baseball!! I'm still mad, but baseball is going to continue this season with or without me.

But I do enjoy reading about all these great players who are losing millions by signing with new clubs, like Chris Sabo, who signed for $550,000 (last year's salary $2 million), and Dan Darwin, $300,000 ($2.4 million), and Ted Higuera $275,000 ($3.25 million).

Higuera was 1-7 last season with an ERA of 7.06, and Darwin was 7-5 with an ERA of 6.30 per game.

The Giants even cashed in on the fire sale by signing outfielder Glenallen Hill for $500,000, who last year earned over $1 million.

The Giants' opening day is Friday, April 28 at 1:05 against the Florida Marlins, and the A's open against the Texas Rangers on Friday, May 5 at 7:05 p.m.

See ya next week!

Baseball team shines

By Chuck Robinson

River City High School had a great week in baseball and won three big games. The pitching was great and we couldn't have asked any better from the defense.

Last Monday, the River City varsity team played a make-up game with Bear River and won 6 to 0. River City scored 6 runs on 9 hits, 1 error. Bear River had 0 runs on 3 hits, 3 errors. Alex Victor was the winning pitcher and Justin Hanks was the catcher. Hitting was Alex Victor, 4 for 5, 1 RBI; Josh Meier, 1 for 4; Josh Castro, 1 for 4, 2B; Brandon Myers, 2 for 4, 2B, HR, 3 RBI's; and Randy Byard, 1 for 3.

On Tuesday, the Raiders beat Encina 19 to 3. River City scored 19 runs on 19 hits, 3 errors. Encina scored 3 runs on 2 hits, 4 errors. Ryan Carr was the winning pitcher. Justin Hanks was the catcher. Mark Stott took over pitching in the sixth inning and did a great relief job with Craig Martinez catching. Hitting was Alex Victor, 3 for 5, 2B, 1 RBI; Josh Meier, 1 for 3, 1 RBI; Jeremy Deaton, 3 for 4, 2B, 3 RBI's;

OPINION

News-Ledger Editorial

Mixed bag

■ In a conversation at the News-Ledger offices the other day, a visitor made a perceptive observation.

West Sacramento's real problem is that different people of different backgrounds in different neighborhoods rarely can work together on anything without getting into personal, petty squabbles when differences of opinion arise.

One symptom of this is the local ecumenical group, in which leaders of different local faiths have banded together to do non-denominational civic work. But even the religious leaders haven't been able to work together, with some refusing to join a group that includes those of differing religious views, even if the group's duties are just to feed the hungry, clothe the poor and generally help out our fellow man and woman.

If the ministers can't work together, it is little surprise that the rest of us don't.

■ Saturday's fatal crash near the Jefferson Blvd. bridge was a tragedy.

Watch it turn political.

Although the cause of the crash is still under investigation, no doubt the inadequacy of the bridge -- and West Sacramento's failure to fix that problem -- will become a political weapon. The city may even become the target of new lawsuits by the victims and their families.

Whether or not the inadequacy of the bridge contributed to the accident, the accident is sure to bring more focus to the need for better and safer access between the northern and southern halves of the city across the barge canal.

Several points are worth remembering:

1. An upgrade to the current Jefferson Blvd. bridge was downgraded in priority soon after incorporation. The city's eggs were all put in one basket -- building a new bridge to serve a planned industrial area. To solve the safety problem, then, a situation was created in which we needed to build the new industrial bridge to promote the safety of residential users.

2. Developers promised to build that bridge if they had their way in the 1990 election, and reneged.

3. The city council made a conscious decision to continue to avoid spending too much local taxpayer money on the bridge (a choice which has no doubt slowed the process), but has contributed to the engineering process and has been working on putting together a private finance district to supplement federal funding. The project is expected to go out to bid around August.

4. The council has also, in an obviously wise move, put a moratorium on new development in Southport until better and safer access is in place. And a policy of strictly enforcing this moratorium is a good one. Exceptions cannot be made lightly. For example, proponents of the Jefferson/Linden "Cheaper!" store should be stringently required to prove that they will not increase barge canal traffic at peak hours before it is granted an exception.

■ Looks like you're reading Yolo County's last local, independent newspaper.

All the others -- in Winters, Davis, Woodland and here in West Sacramento -- are parts of multi-newspaper corporations, often owned by out-of-town interests.

The advantage to being part of a multi-newspaper organization is that you're supposed to have access to more resources and better know-how to do the job right. The downside is that these papers often exist more to ship money out of a community than to serve that community.

Independent, locally owned newspapers like this one have a reputation for being feisty little watchdogs that put their community's interests first, above corporate profits.

The News-Ledger will continue to try to live up to that reputation.

Letters to the Editor

Thanks, rescuers

On two occasions in the past year we have called 911 for assistance with medical problems. We would like to use this means to express our deep gratitude to both the firemen and the paramedics for the promptness with which they have responded, their professionalism, and the gentle care with which they have treated their patients. They merit the respect of the whole community.

Cahill & the Council

Inquiring minds want to know...several months ago, your paper announced a new Q and A column allowing residents to pose questions to city government. Based on the fact that councilman Beers maintains he had the right to force Commissioner Cahill to resign, here are my queries:

1) Do all commissioners serve at "the pleasure of the city council?" 2) Can just one councilman fire a commissioner or does it take a majority vote of the entire council to oust a commissioner? 3) Does each councilman have authority over only commissioners he appoints? 4) Why are the applications collected by the city if individual councilmen actually make the appointments? 5) Is there a process of appeal for an ousted commissioner? 6) If any councilman has the right to remove any commissioner at his whim, doesn't that mean a commissioner is subject to dismissal if he displeases any of five separate councilman (usually on opposite sides of an issues)? 7) Since a commissioner cannot humanly please all five councilmen at once, doesn't it make his position impossible and his vote meaningless? 8) In the interest of saving time and tax payers money, should the applications for planning commission (replacing Mr. Cahill) be sent directly to Wes Beers or Dan Amegin (or maybe Mr. Amegin is applying himself)? 9) Does a resident have to be a member of SHA to be appointed to the planning commission? 10) Why bother to have a planning commission at all?

Previous questions to the city about specific incidents have been answering vague statements of general policy. Please try to pressure either the city council or a city spokesman to specifically answer each and every questions just as it is posed. I think residents deserve honest direct answers from their representatives.

When the community access cable commission displeased a previous council by thwarting some of its political goals, the entire commission was summarily abolished. As a past member of that commission, I was grateful that we had warning. One official (still on the job) had too much to drink one night and his conscience begin to bother him. He made a secret phone call alerting commissioners that the axe was going to fall. It's a shame that city politics can become so ruthless that good men are thrown into moral dilemmas that drive them to drink.

I like Wes Beers and I am very disappointed he is capable of playing political hardball. As a casual observer, it appears he was primarily concerned with circumventing the democratic process when the Cheaper Store appeal was returned to the planning commission because Mayor Tuttle changed her vote (and allowed reconsideration). I guess he found a way to be sure the planning commission didn't approve it for a second time. Too bad he had to sell out his old friend, Jim Cahill, in the process.

I'm not privy to the sordid details; I can only hope there are no vested financial interests involved and it is just another case of a public servant caving in to organized pressure. Prospective planning commissioners should be warned, before they raise their right hand to take the noble oath, that they are jumping into a political snakepit.

In closing, I'm sincerely sorry to hear Mr. Muse, as a child, was kicked in the head by a mule. Now I understand why we grew up to become a Republican.

HOPE HERR
West Sacramento

Editor's note: We'll invite Mr. Beers or other city representative to respond to your questions. But the short answer is that each of the five city councilpeople personally appoints one member to the planning commission, and that member serves at the discretion of the person who appoints.

The remaining two planning commissioners are "at large" appointees. When there is a vacancy, any council member may nominate a new "at large" commissioner from the pool of applicants, and approval is subject to a council vote.

Other city bodies work similarly.

Cops mistreated

It seems so unfair that one individual can ruin the life-long ambitions and careers of young families trying to protect and do good deeds for others in these frightful times.

The justice system to my way of thinking is more and more of a farce than it ever was, and its not getting any better.

Now, the families I am referring to are those of the two West Sacramento police officers accused of excessive force. Looking at it in another manner, if the officers would have been knifed or shot, I suppose in the eyes of their superiors they were doing their job properly. How did they know (the officers) that the criminal wasn't armed.

These officers have been terminated by the system. They have had no black marks on their records against either one of them. A total of seventeen years experience in police work down the drain. These two officers don't even get the "three strikes you're out" law.

The guy that the officers chased was caught, arrested and taken to jail. He was released sometime later, within a week or two I believe. It wasn't too much longer that he was arrested in Sacramento County or charges of felony vehicle theft, robbery and violation of parole. A real nice character, wouldn't you say? I guess he's in jail now, getting three square meals, pays no taxes, welfare probably. Why work?! They'll let him out early, it's my hunch, and he'll do it all over again.

I'm still concerned why our officers were denied the opportunity to be given a less stringent sentence than being terminated.

Is it politics or has the system failed? Who is the system protecting, the criminals or the law officers of our cities? The more officers they take off the streets, the less protection the honest people get. Think about it, and thank you for reading this letter.

Library news

Our thanks to the News-Ledger for printing our National Library Week events in your April 5 issue. While you can usually depend upon libraries for quiet study and contemplation, National Library Week is the time we sound off about libraries.

We also want to thank Mayor Cindy Tuttle, the West Sacramento City Council and the Yolo County Board of Supervisors for proclaiming this week officially National Library Week locally. Finally, we thank the East Yolo Friends of the Library for their year-round efforts to strengthen public library service in West Sacramento. We appreciate everyone's help.

Our goal this year is to sign up at least 3,000 new borrowers. As of April 1, registered borrowers totalled 7,990 which is only 719 people short of our goal. With your help and that of the East Yolo Friends of the Library we expect to succeed by the June 30 deadline.

Approximately 400 people per day use the branch library. Total items borrowed this year: 74,994. We expect the total for the year to exceed 100,000. About half of that is non-fiction. We are the People's University.

We answered over 5,200 reference questions last year. You don't need a library card to use any book inside the library. You can buy recent magazines for ten cents. You can look up over 700 local agencies, clubs and organizations through the Yololink online human services database.

We are open six days per week, four evenings and Saturdays: a total of 50 hours weekly.

Our collections include videos and books-on-tape, magazines and newspapers as well as hardbound and paperback books. Through interbranch and interlibrary loan you can borrow books from other Yolo County branches as well as libraries all over the country.

Besides recreational reading, some of our most heavily used books are the automobile Blue Book for used car values, automobile repair manuals, books on taking employment exams, writing resumes, legal and medical self-help.

We urge parents to make visits to the library regular family events. Good habits are learned early and by example. Take advantage of our Summer Reading Program to allow children to explore their own interests through literature.

Celebrate National Library Week with us. The theme is "Libraries Change Lives." You could begin to change your life as well...

State offices

Sounds like the Urban Land Institute believes the State already owns land near the Capitol Park to build several new office buildings and should do before considering other sites, including West Sacramento. If the State accepts those recommendations, West Sac should, as Frank Ramos claims, change directions. But a Wal-Mart at 3rd and West Capitol Ave., northeast corner? Hardly. West Sac. still has locations for a Wal-Mart which are more ideal: Reed Ave. between Harbor Blvd. and I-80, across from KOVR-Ch. 13. Wal-Mart's style commands dozens, if not hundreds, of unmetered parking spaces and thus does not match the limited acreage available on our side of the Tower Bridge. It is also dif-

Local Easter services are announced

There will be a special worship at Trinity Presbyterian Church, 1500 Park Blvd. in West Sacramento, this week. A Good Friday service of worship will be held on Friday, April 14, at 12:30 p.m., and two Easter Sunday services will take place on April 16 -- one at 9:30 a.m. and the other at 11 a.m.

Joy Christian Ministries, 320 West Capitol Avenue in West Sacramento, will also hold an Easter service on April 16 at 9 a.m. There will also be an Easter egg hunt for the children, with a giant Easter basket to be given away in a drawing.

"Hail, Caesar! I have heard that you desire to know something of the virtuous man known as Jesus Christ; whom the people consider to be the Prophet of God, creator of heaven and earth. Verily, Caesar, we daily hear of marvelous things with respect to this man. To be brief, it is said that he raises the dead, and makes the sick to walk; is a man of medium stature, benevolent aspect, full of dignity that is manifest also in his physical being. Upon seeing him, one feels the desire to love him and to respect him at the same time. His hair is parted in the middle in the manner of the Nazarenes, reaches his shoulders and is the color of mature nuts down to his ears and from there to the ends is a brilliant clear blond. The forehead is light, and the face has not lines or scars. The beard is the same color as his hair, is not long, and is divided in the middle. His gaze is severe and none can look him directly in his eyes. When he gives reproach, he inspires fear, but afterward cries with him who he has reproached.

"In spite of his serenity, he is amiable and friendly. It is said that nobody has seen him laugh, to the contrary, many have seen him cry. His hands are beautiful, the same as his arms. The opinion of all is that his conversation is agreeable and interesting. Rarely is he seen in public, but when he is, he is modest. He has a distinguished posture. He is beautiful. If you desire to see him, oh Caesar, as you once wrote me, let me know and I will send him to you immediately. Although he has never studied, he knows all the sciences. He is accustomed to walking barefoot, and with his head uncovered. many have desired to hurt him from a distance, but upon nearing him, tremble and adore him. They say there has never been a man such as him.

"The Hebrews say that never has doctrine such as his been divulged. Many of them say that he is God, others that he is your enemy, oh Caesar. They say that he has done wrong to no man, but at the same time that he is dedicated to contend with the whole world. In any case, oh Caesar, I am ready to fulfill all of your orders with respect to him.

Jerusalem, edict 7
11th month
Publius Lectulus
Governor of Judea"

We join the Christians everywhere this joyous season in celebrating the sacrifice of the savior of the world. Jesus Christ is the personification of light, of life and love, of beauty and goodness and goodwill towards all men. Ultimately, he is beyond human description, yet if there is one word we have that describes him best, it must be "love." Every action recorded of his mortal ministry permeates this attribute by which he tells us, true Christians are defined.

I testify to the reality of his pre-mortal life, his virgin birth, his sacred mortal ministry, and most of all that he is resurrected and yet lives. He is our personal Savior as we accept his atoning sacrifice. there is no other name given under heaven whereby a man can be saved and forgiven of sins. Though there be great teachers, leaders and prophets, now or throughout history, yet only one man has personally and positively answered the question posed by Job:

"If a man dies, shall he live again?" (Job 14:14).

Christ's timeless reply rings down through time to this very moment:

"Because I live, ye shall live also." (John 14:19)

I love him and express my gratitude for his influence in my life.

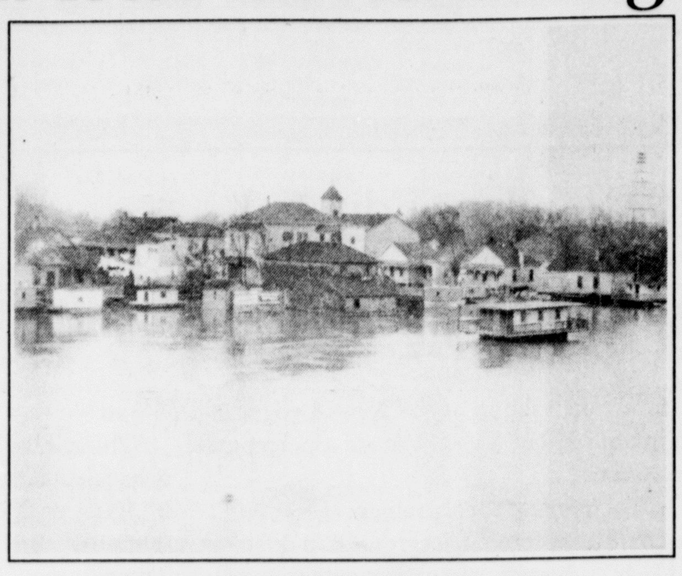

What think ye of Christ?

Lecture on local moviemaking

Local Historian Paul Frobose will discuss early film making in the Sacramento/West Sacramento region as the guest of the West Sacramento Historical Society on Tuesday, April 18.

The meeting will take place at 6:30 p.m. at the Arthur M. Turner Library, 1212 Merkley Ave.

"Steamboat Bill," starring Buster Keaton, was filmed along the Sacramento River, as were the original versions of "Showboat" and "Tom Sawyer."

Early scene on Sacramento Riverfront

The slide show and lecture are free and open to the public. The program is co-sponsored by the West Sacramento Chamber of Commerce.

For more information, telephone Bryan Turner at 371-6915, or Louisa R. Vessell at 451-5749.

Note from the publisher

By Michael P. Garten
News-Ledger Publisher

The death of Mrs. Helen Brown last week is noted with particular sadness, inasmuch as she contributed so much to the betterment of West Sacramento over such a long period of years.

Helen Brown worked tirelessly on Measure A and B to buy out our local water system and to pass bonds to build it; she worked early on to establish the James Marshall Parent Nursery School; she was involved with the East Yolo Friends of the Library and a host of other worthwhile public and private benefactions, and always without thanks or praise.

To those who knew her many kindnesses and gentle ways, we were honored with her sweet friendship and counsel.

Helen was an important community asset who made our city and its place in California a better environment for us all. She will be genuinely missed.

ficult to envision Wal-Mart management spending so much more (on a per acre basis) and that corner could not handle the increased traffic. Better save unique sites for uses that customers/taxpayers appreciate: like a mini-convention site with hotel rooms to supplement the new one in the Capitol, but make it transit-oriented with decent, affordable restaurants that would seriously compete for Capitol luncheons and dinners. Before resorting to parking meters, think of development that makes multi-use of what should be limited parking potential. But yes, Mr. Ramos; West Sac should change directions and rethink present plans: Since MacMillan-Bloedel will not generate sales tax revenues, will cause water and landfill problems into the millions of dollars yearly, West Sac should reject a project so beneficial to Sacramento and such a long-term liability to West Sac, especially since the Capitol City refuses to cooperate with us on another bridge across the Sacramento River.

Much more needs to be explained regarding just exactly how much it would cost West Sac to hook up to Sacramento's large sewer treatment system. First we hear $33 million, then we read, $28 million additional for a MacMillan Bloedel hookup and any new development would apparently trigger new hookup fees. As stated last week, that $61 million sounds like a bit much for the status quo plus McMB. Would West Sac pretreat any sewage? Again, it seems outrageous that West Sac should pay Sacramento anything for the McMB waste since most of the recycled paper-to-be would come from Sacramento! It still makes more sense to just build the McMB plant on the Sacramento side. Use the McMB site for some business that generates sales tax -- like a Wal-Mart.

Local day care

Community Development Studies say we need a Big Center. Of course it sounds like Nazi youth camps to anyone over 20 years old and it's not "in" to look down on something when the "C" word precedes it. Bizarre, wacko thinking you say? Senate Resolution 70 by Albright.

Did you know that the Community Development Agency is posturing to take over the day care industry? It cares so much about your kids. I'm sure the new child care ordinance sounds good to some. It's such an "in" thing when you can take over the day care business by creating big centers and doing it with mega tax dollars.

Proposes an U.N. Children's Rights and Child treaty. It sets up the U.N. to determine child needs, a policing agency, to enforce their findings and U.N. funding for the proposal. The children's treaty to parents says, "No religious training, no discipline or ethical guidance other than that determined by U.N. council and lots more."

But of course we'll have a say in things -- just like the Christians in Rome, and the Jews in Germany; the slaves in the South and the Indians in early America.

Do you believe people will do the right thing if they use the "C" word or the word "poor" or "immigrant" or "social security?" Just like the country of India looks after their people, and the Mexican president looks after his people -- the next "spare parts" industry that will sponsor euthanasia and cloning. Since we're moving into the year 2000, we can look forward to the Soylent Green aspect and they'll probably give us a say then.

Let's repeat history -- do something in the name of children, give them to the government -- they always do the right thing. Yea.

Port strike

I wonder if anyone other than myself has noticed the actions of the employees of the Sacramento Yolo Port District pulling a wild cat strike shutting the operation down at a crucial time when their employer needs more resources than they are producing to keep operating because the port wants to lease some of it's property in order to bring in more revenue so they can keep their jobs because they are afraid there may be some non-union workers on port property?

I, for one, object to the port socking me for more taxes to keep those Bozos employed. Where are their sense of fairness?

When they shut their employer down to where they can't make money they should be thrown out of a job.

I was a union member most of my working life but never participated in an illegal strike. I don't think a credible union would allow such action by it's members.

Police log

April 4, 12 p.m.
A 29 year old transient man was caught trying to cash a check stolen from a Sacramento church. He was arrested at a Sacramento Ave. business in West Sacramento, and officers found three syringes in his possession.

April 4, 6:30 p.m.
A 23-year old West Capitol Ave. man was seen driving recklessly into an apartment complex near Maple St., almost striking a juvenile. The youth injured a leg. The vehicle was stopped by a "4 X 4" post, and the driver fled on foot. He was arrested.

April 5
Officers observed a 47-year old Sacramento man on a bridge ramp above the police station's parking lot, dropping coins on vehicles below. One officer's car windshield sustained damage. The man was arrested.

April 8, 3:55 a.m.
A 23-year old West Sacramento man was seen "dumpster diving" along Merkley Ave.; he was found to be in possession of a substance which tested positive for methamphetamine, and was taken into custody.

April 8, 10:53 a.m.
A car was reported to have been stolen from Hardy Dr. the previous night.

April 9, 1 a.m.
Someone broke the windshield of a vehicle parked on Touchstone Pl., and attempted to "punch" the ignition. Nothing was stolen.

April 9, 11:17 a.m.
Three juveniles (two of whom were on in-line skates) along West Capitol Ave. were reported to be in possession of "numchucks," an illegal martial arts weapon. An officer contacted the youths' parents.

April 9, 8:36 p.m.
A man took a 12-pack of beer from a Sacramento Ave. convenience market and fled in an auto.

April 10, 5:17 p.m.
Five teens in a car southbound on Jefferson near 15th St. were reported to be throwing ice at parked cars. A caller reported nearly losing control of a vehicle because of them. Officers contacted the youths' parents and found out the weapons were really rubber-type toys.

What's New at The Library

Ideas are what sell in the world of freelance writing

NON-FICTION
MAGAZINE WRITING THAT SELLS
Don McKinney
Writer's Digest. 227 pages.
"It doesn't take any genius to break into print," says author McKinney, a former magazine editor who knows first-hand what editors want from freelancers. It's mostly a business of ideas and "most writers don't produce enough good ideas," he writes. This book tells how to get ideas, how to pitch them to editors, and what to charge for your work.

BUSINESS
THE DISCIPLINE OF MARKET LEADERS
Michael Treacy and Fred Wiersema
Addison-Wesley. 202 pages
Focus is the key to market leadership, whether in a small business or a multi-national concern, say the authors of this, the current "must read" of the business community. Market leaders don't rest on their laurels, but offer better value year after year. This commitment to value and sticking with one thing that you do well are the keys to success, say the authors.

HISTORY
A WORLD AT ARMS: A Global History of World War II
Gerald L. Weinberg
Cambridge. 1175 pages.
The half-century anniversary of WWII is a good time to sit back with this sweeping new narrative, which captures all the battles, strategy and political undercurrents of the greatest event in recent world history. Few histories have succeeded as this one does in weaving together all the threads of a war that consumed theplanet.

UPCOMING EVENTS

Golden anniversary

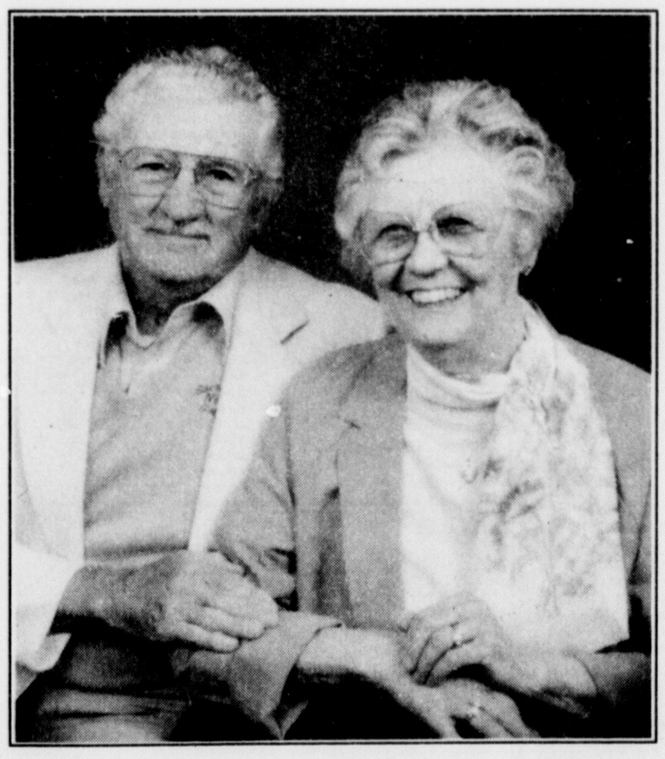

The Sembachs then (above) and now (below)

Charles and Lillian Sembach, who were married April 8, 1945 in Dallas, recently celebrated their 50th anniversary with a trip to Catalina Island off the coast of Southern California.

Mrs. Sembach was born in Michigan, and her husband is a Philadelphia native who retired from the Air Force in 1977 after a career that included serving as a pilot during World War II, an Air Operations Officer in Korea, and as a radar technician in the Vietnam War.

The couple bought their home in West Sacramento in 1958, when they transferred from Biloxi, Mississippi, to McClellan Air Force Base.

Arts boosters ready for RCHS drama cast party

Invitations are in the mail for the Arts Booster Club of River City High School's traditional theater party honoring the cast and crew of the musical The Pajama Game. The party will take place after the May 12 performance, which begins at 8 p.m., at Yolo High School.

Now in its 14th year, ABC is a support group for the arts and traditionally holds the party on the second Friday of the two weekend performances. Proceeds of the event are used in assisting the arts at River City High School and have assisted in developing the Yolo High School facility.

If you are a member of ABC, or an interested alumni or community member, and wish to make a reservation, all you have to do is send a check to P.O. Box 2033, West Sacramento, CA, 95691, or drop off the check at River City High School. All seats for this performance are $6. Refreshments will be served.

Paper plant, Southport Framework Plan among council's agenda items

Workshop on the Southport framework plan.

-- and a number of other city issues.

NOTICE

OF PUBLIC HEARING and AVAILABILITY OF AN ENVIRONMENTAL DOCUMENT for the I-80/Enterprise Boulevard Interchange Project

The City of West Sacramento and the California Department of Transportation (Caltrans) are planning to improve a 1 mile stretch centered along I-80, including the existing I-80/Enterprise Boulevard Interchange and the Enterprise Boulevard/West Capitol Avenue intersection. The project includes realigning the Enterprise Boulevard/West Capitol Avenue intersection; widening Enterprise Boulevard; improving the eastbound on-ramp and provision for future ramp metering; widening the eastbound off-ramp; adding a diagonal eastbound on-ramp to the eastbound I-80 connector; adding a westbound "tight" I-80 on-ramp loop between the relocated westbound I-80 off-ramp to West Capitol Avenue and the I-80 undercrossing structure; shifting the existing westbound I-80 off-ramp to the east along West Capitol Avenue and modifying the on-ramp into a two-lane exit; relocating the existing eastern portion of Lake Road; constructing new signalized intersections at Lake Road and the eastbound ramps; modifying the eastbound ramps intersection signal; constructing a new Park-N-Ride carpool parking area and modifying the existing Park-N-Ride area; and providing street lighting, overhead sign structures, and landscaping. Construction of the proposed project is scheduled to begin May 1996 and completed May 1997.

The City, in cooperation with Caltrans, has prepared an environmental document for this roadway improvement project. The finding of this environmental document is that there will be no significant adverse environmental effects of the project. This environmental document is called a Draft Initial Study. The public review period for this environmental document is from March 22, 1995, to April 20, 1995.

A public hearing on the project and the environmental document will be held at the April 20, 1995, Planning Commision hearing. All interested members of the community are invited to attend. The time and place of the hearing are listed as follows:

When: Thursday, April 20, 1995, 6:00 p.m.
Where: 2101 Stone Boulevard, West Sacramento, CA.

The environmental document, project maps, and other project information are available for review at the City of West Sacramento Community Development Department, 1951 South River Road, West Sacramento, from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. Other locations where the environmental document is available are the Turner Branch Library at 1212 Merkley Avenue and City Hall at 2101 Stone Boulevard.

If you cannot attend the public hearing but have comments on the project, please submit them in writing to the address shown below by April 20, 1995.

'Santa Train': Parks Dept. gets award

From West Sacramento Parks and Community Services

The California Park and Recreation Society District II has recognized the West Sacramento Parks and Community Services Department for an outstanding recreation program. The Technical Merit in a Recreational Program Award was given to the Santa Train Program. This is the fourth consecutive year the department has received this award, an unprecedented feat. Previously, the department has won the award for the P.O.P. Program, the Holiday Happiness Program, and the Adopt-a-School Program. No other jurisdiction in CPRS District II which has boundaries from Tracy in the south, Redding in the north and Lake Tahoe in the east has won this award three years in a row, let alone four years.

The Santa Train is a collaboration with Yolo Shortline and the City of Woodland Parks and Community Services Department whereby Santa rides the train throughout Yolo County and families visit Santa on the train. Over 800 people participated this year.

The PETITION requests that the decedent's WILL and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

The PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on April 26, 1995 at 9:00 a.m. in Dept. Probate 4, Room 200, located at 725 Court Street, Woodland, CA 95695.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in section 9100 of the California Probate Code. The time for filing claims will not expire before four months from the hearing date noticed above.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a formal Request for Special Notice of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in section 1250 of the California Probate Code. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

week. Then we go on to do a '95 percent' design, and there is a review by the city council."

Plans are expected to be complete by June, he said, and the project is hoped to go to bid by July or August, for completion in late 1996.

The city currently has a moratorium on further development in Southport, the city's southern half, until it solves the transportation problem epitomized by the crowded, two-lane Jefferson Blvd. bridge.

The entire project -- separate from a planned nearby railroad crossing -- is expected to cost abour $19 million. $8.3 million has been pledged by the federal government for the project, and city officials are seeking the balance of the funding through a partnership with development interests hoping to build out Southport's 7,000 acres.

"We had a meeting of major property owners last night," said Patek. "They are going to continue to meet and try to come up with a proposal for funding the first phase."

River City will also play on Wednesday, but the time is yet to be determined, pending their wins and losses. River City's record overall is 6-3 and 5-1 in league. On Monday, April 17, River City will play at Will C. Wood; game time is 3:30 p.m.

Planners recommend keeping offices in Sacto

By Steve Marschke

West Sacramento officials are "disappointed" by an Urban Land Institute study which will recommend that the state of California concentrate its new office development near Sacramento's "Capitol Park" area, and not in peripheral regions such as Richards Blvd. or the West Sacramento riverfront.

If the state takes the recommendations of the highly respected institute, the decision would slow the development of West Sacramento's riverfront, said Val Toppenberg, the city's redevelopment agency director.

Developments such as Peter McCuen's Raley's Landing project and the Lighthouse project, both along West Sacramento's northern riverfront, have tried to compete for state office projects in recent state bids.

Toppenberg added that the study -- which was presented April 7 but due to be released in written form in late June -- considered only the state's point of view, and did not take into account local governments' desires and policies. He said West Sacramento's riverfront would still develop, with the aid of proposed office projects such as the pending Money Store headquarters proposal, but would be slowed if it cannot attract state offices as an "anchor."

The Urban Land Institute opined that the state should consolidate its offices on acreage it already owned near Capitol Park before looking elsewhere.

According to Toppenberg, panel members also said that West Sacramento's riverfront, like the Southern Pacific Railyard region and the Richards Blvd. area of Sacramento, were "not ready for prime office space development."

Several members also suggested that the West Sacramento riverfront real estate was "simply too good" for state office construction, and that the city had done an excellent job formulating its long term vision. They suggested the city concentrate on high-end residential and hotel developments to serve the Sacramento downtown area, and on promoting private sector office development.

Panelists advised Toppenberg to look at Cincinatti's development along the Ohio River, and mentioned the possibility of performing a similar study for West Sacramento.

Literacy —

A new family literacy program will be starting on Monday, May 1, at Alyce Norman School, 1200 Anna Street in West Sacramento. The Even Start Family Literacy Program, made possible by a state grant awarded to Washington Unified School District, will serve families who have the desire to learn to read, receive their high school diploma or learn English.

If you are interested in the program, or know of someone who is, please call 372-4242 or 371-9300, ext. 271.

Opening lead — king of hearts.

This fascinating hand appears in "Spotlight on Card Play" by Robert Darvas and Paul Lukacs. West leads the king of hearts, East following suit with the five, and the question is how declarer should proceed so as to give himself the best chance of making three notrump.

Let's first assume that South takes the king with the ace and tries a diamond finesse. East wins, returns a heart, and South goes down one.

Let's next assume that South ducks the king of hearts, playing the three on it. (This play is known as a Bath Coup.) If West leads another heart, South easily makes four notrump. But if West gives proper weight to his partner's play of the five of hearts — the lowest heart available — he does not lead another heart, realizing that South has the A-J.

West instead shifts to the queen of spades and continues the suit even if declarer ducks the queen and jack. South eventually goes down one, losing a heart, three spades and a diamond.

It may therefore seem that declarer is doomed no matter what he does on the first trick, but this is not quite so. Actually, he stands a very good chance of misdirecting the defense if, at trick one, he drops his jack of hearts on West's king!

West would have to be mighty smart to stop leading hearts after this extraordinary play, since he would naturally assume that South started with the A-J alone. This would be consistent with East holding the 6-5-3 and signaling mildly with the five.

West would almost surely play another heart at trick two to force out the ace. South could now afford to win with the ace and attempt the diamond finesse, guaranteeing the contract whether or not the finesse succeeded.
